Imagine a service that relieves us from the task of selecting leisure activities from a wide variety of offers relevant to our personal interests - at home or on the go. A service that brings us together with people who share the same leisure interests and that helps us planning our activities while not forgetting about our privacy. Furthermore, imagine a service that supports the trustbuilding between users who are foreign to each other. That is where the prospective business start-up Happenizer comes into play.

Happenizer - Getting Personalized Recommendations for Leisure Activities and Like-minded People in Your Area